New ERS initiative

PROFESSOR MARC HUMBERT
ERS PRESIDENT
The ERS channel is designed to provide professional support to respiratory clinicians to inform day-to-day practice.

It will function as a respected expert colleague, helping respiratory clinicians interpret complex problems delivered in a peer-to-peer manner. To do this it will provide regular reviews of important topics, summaries of ERS programs and peer-peer interactive sessions.

In 2022 the existing service will be developed to provide a more extensive offering.

The service will be offered as a premium subscription product with selected free content.
Welcome to ERS’s new digital channel!

Access all our online content, including live events and courses, webinars, panel discussions, podcasts and much more.

Focus of the Preseidency and the International Respiratory Coalition (IRC)

Focus of presidency

Spotlight on chronic rare lung diseases

- Tighten the links with ERN-LUNG in close partnership with ELF, Education, Science, Advocacy and patient associations
- Memorandum of Understanding in place since 2019
- Joint sessions at ERS International Congresses
- Joint webinars, education, fellowships
- ERN-LUNG novel application in 2022 with a well-defined role for ERS (education, science, advocacy, publications, fellowships, seminars and congress)
• Political attention on respiratory diseases is currently absent
• Few countries have a plan for lung health and chronic respiratory diseases, unlike other diseases like cancer – for which most countries have a plan
• Raise awareness of the drivers and impact of under-prioritisation of respiratory diseases
• The COVID-19 pandemic is a unique opportunity to promote lung health and ensure better respiratory care is central to government and healthcare system recovery plans
• Launch of an International Respiratory Coalition to transform post-pandemic respiratory healthcare
The IRC’s main objective is to raise the awareness and position of respiratory medicine.

The hope is to encourage all stakeholders in respiratory medicine to work as partners in support of the objectives of the coalition.

Current confirmed partners:
Objectives of the IRC

European Respiratory Society (ERS) perspective

Objectives of the International Respiratory Coalition are completely aligned with the mission of the ERS - to prioritise science, education and advocacy in order to promote lung health, alleviate suffering from respiratory disease and drive standards for respiratory medicine globally

ERS has a long term concern that lung health should be higher on the agenda for all stakeholders from researchers, to patients, the public and governments.

Respiratory medicine teams are playing a pivotal role in the COVID-19 pandemic, managing the bulk of hospitalised cases, while continuing non-COVID respiratory care, and managing long term complications of COVID-19 (including long COVID) – meaning there is never more an important time to capitalise on this current impetus and profile.

ERS brings strong advocacy expertise with our work with the EU, WHO and governmental agencies, and we have key links with respiratory societies, and patient groups worldwide.

We will work with coalition members to develop a respiratory manifesto and workplan, goals, timeline and governance processes to enable the coalition to deliver policy advancement and improved outcomes at national and international level.
Next steps

- Gather stakeholders under the umbrella
- Form a board for governance
- Create a roadmap with agreed milestones and objectives
